

Intro to Constitutional Law – Final Exam

Final Exam Due midnight Sunday, March 10, 2012.

Each question is worth 33 points.

Essay

Directions: Write a complete answer in response to all of the following questions. See below for further instructions.

1. What is the difference between reasonable suspicion and probable cause? How is reasonableness determined? You will need a detailed discussion of these questions with citations to cases that you have read.
2. Name four exceptions to the search warrant requirement and discuss each one by providing an example of the application of the exception to particular facts. These examples should come from cases that you have read.
3. When does the Sixth Amendment right to counsel exist? How is that right different from the Fifth Amendment right to counsel?

WOULD YOU LIKE TO GET A GOOD GRADE? READ AND SCRUPULOUSLY FOLLOW THE BELOW INSTRUCTIONS.

This is a take-home exam; therefore, the expectations are necessarily higher than an in-class exam. I expect your responses to these questions will require about six pages, or roughly two pages per question. Your answers must be emailed to cfbruno@sbcglobal.net . The due date is MIDNIGHT, SUNDAY, March 10, 2012. Follow the instructions below carefully.

1. Your response must be in APA format. Only one title page and one reference page are needed for all questions. In-text citations with a reference page are required.
2. Do not copy or quote any material at all from any source. Any copied material found in your paper will result in a grade of zero for that question. Summarize your research in your own words.
3. Do not paste the question in your response to take up space. Just number your answers so I know which question you are answering.
4. If your only resource is the text, you will not be happy with your grade. You must do independent research and read cases. If you are stuck and do not know how to look up an answer, contact me and I will post helpful hints on desksgt.com .
4. We study criminology to learn to use empirical evidence to answer criminal justice questions. If you answer questions with just uninformed opinions, you will receive no credit for that answer. Do your research, follow the research, summarize the research, and use the research to answer the questions.
5. Follow the writing instructions in your handbook and on desksgt.com . One inch margins, 12 point type, double-spaced, with proper grammar, capitalization, and spelling. Proof read your paper before submitting.